Clayton Cavalier Homes Project Wins ABC Excellence in Construction Award

The Associated Builders and Contractors' (ABC) Excellence in Construction program has become the premier competition within the industry that recognizes outstanding construction projects across the nation. The award celebrates the most innovative and high-quality construction projects, safety programs, and diversity programs. The Brindley Construction team is pleased to announce that the recently completed break room project at Clayton Cavalier Homes in Addison, Alabama was awarded the ABC of Greater Tennessee Chapter Excellence in Construction Award. This design-build project was awarded the top prize in the General Contractor: Industrial Less Than $10 Million category.

Brindley crews constructed a new break room and administrative offices for Clayton Cavalier Homes, a modular mobile home manufacturer. The new break room was constructed on the front of the plant and consists of 10,500 square feet of café space and a 2,300-square-foot covered patio. This space includes with a large conference room, four administrative offices, new restrooms, a fully-furnished commercial kitchen fitted with stainless steel appliances, and outdoor seating. We are so proud that this beautiful new break room was recognized with the ABC's top award. Jeff Brindley was the project manager, Sammy Dickey was the superintendent, and Melissa Pierce was the project assistant.

Brindley & Associates Intern Studies Abroad

In the spring of 2019, long-time Brindley & Associates intern Lyric Currin traveled to South Korea to study abroad and teach English. During her time in Korea, Lyric studied at the prestigious Hanyang University, learning Hangul, the Korean language. Lyric not only experienced Korean culture, but studied alongside people from France, Italy, England, Barbados, Morocco, Zimbabwe, Cambodia, Malaysia, and Germany, just to name a few!

Some of Lyric's favorite experiences included touring castles and temples in Seoul wearing traditional Korean clothing called the hanbok, attending Seoul Fashion Week, and visiting the United States Embassy, where she met many high-standing officials. Lyric thanks the Brindley team for their love and support. Her study abroad experience was life-changing and she cannot wait to see where her next adventure takes her.

Kenneth Noah Retires After 25 Years of Service

Twenty-five years ago—almost to the day—Kenneth Noah became Brindley Construction's newest superintendent. His first project was Dr. Thomas Zimmerman's office building in Tullahoma, Tennessee.

Kenneth was born on December 14, 1952 to Wilson and Nelle Noah of Belvedere, Tennessee on the same farm he lives on today. He graduated from Huntland High School in 1970 and began his long construction career. Working with his family, he learned that nothing could replace quality. Kenneth worked for other area contractors for several years and then became a custom home builder in the Lincoln County area.

Kenneth took pride in his craft and on October 26, 1994, Brindley Construction was lucky to make him part of our team. Over the years, Kenneth has completed many projects for Brindley Construction across the Southeast. Some of his award-winning projects include Johnson Controls Foam Plant addition in Pulaski, Tennessee; Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church in Columbia, Tennessee; First National Bank in Athens, Alabama; First National Bank renovation in Pulaski, Tennessee; and South Central Tennessee Development District in Mt. Pleasant, Tennessee. Other projects include medical offices, municipal buildings, assisted living facilities, churches, and commercial offices.

Kenneth has two sons, James Noah of Belvidere, Tennessee and Robert Noah of Los Angeles, California, as well as three grandchildren Spencer, Rille, and Noah. Kenneth is a newlywed having married his wife, Kaye in June 2019.

We celebrated Kenneth's retirement with a Cajun shrimp boil in the Brindley warehouse. The entire Brindley team appreciates the contributions that Kenneth has made over the last 25 years. Not only is he a valued team member, but he is our dear friend.

The Brindley Team Welcomes Kimberly Hughes

We would like to welcome Kimberly Hughes to the Brindley Team! Kim recently began working in our Accounting Department. She is currently enrolled at Athens State Community College finishing up her Bachelor's Degree in Human Resources Management with a certification in Human Resources. Kim also earned an Associates Degree in Business from Columbia State Community College.

In her spare time, Kim enjoys bowling, hunting and watching football. She is married to Ronnie Hughes and is a native of Giles County.

Former Mustard Seed Antiques Gets A Facelift

The Brindley Team is currently renovating the former Mustard Seed Antiques building on the Pulaski Historic Square. We are converting the former antiques shop into new office space. Stay tuned for project updates!

New Edward Jones Office Build-Out in Pulaski

Our team recently completed an office build-out for Edward Jones Investments in Pulaski, Tennessee. Brindley Construction built the original building several years ago and recently renovated a portion of it into beautiful, new office space for Mr. Lee Liggett and Edward Jones Investments. Bryan Brindley and Charlie Helton worked with Edward Jones' corporate construction office on design and branding.

On August 16, a ribbon-cutting ceremony was held by the Giles County Chamber of Commerce. We are proud to be part of Pulaski's continued growth.

Construction Career Talk For Middle-Schoolers

Brindley Construction Executive Vice President & Marketing Director Kathy Pigg recently spoke with the 6th, 7th and 8th graders at Richland High School about careers in construction. Kathy explained that there is an industry-wide shortage of carpenters, plumbers, electricians, iron workers, sheet metal workers, superintendents and project managers. These students have easy access to great paying jobs with no college experience necessary! Brindley hopes to educate young people about the careers possibilities in construction.

Brindley Participates In Giles County Chili Cook-Off

The Giles County Chamber held their 29th Annual Chili Cook-Off on October 3rd. Brindley staff manned a booth on this hot evening, serving up chili, cornbread, and drinks to the public. Through we did not go home with a prize, we loved participating in this great event!

New Education Center for Wolf Gap Education Outreach

Brindley Construction was recently awarded the contract to construct the new education center for Kelly and Tyler Hamlin, principals of Wolf Gap Education Outreach, Inc. The 14,000-square-foot pre-engineered building will occupy a six-acre campus at 2718 Tarpley Gap Shop Road in Pulaski. Jeff Brindley will serve as the project manager for Wolf Gap.

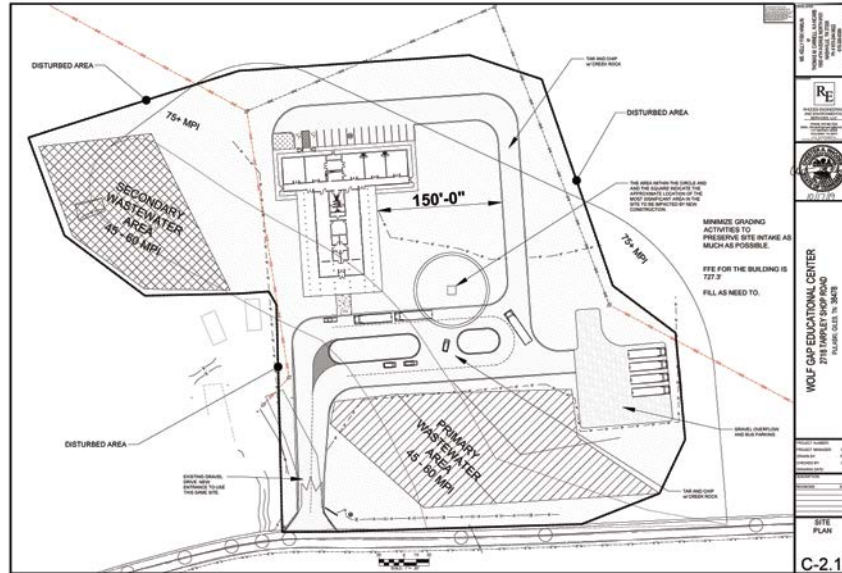

Special attention has been paid to limit the disturbance at the site, which is home to two historic log cabins. These structures have served to support programs and projects on nature and history to strengthen the community's understanding of its past and present. There will be very little concrete visible as the drive and parking lot will be constructed of natural stone so the education center will match its surroundings.

The new facility will include five classrooms that will be expandable to accommodate conferences, four large offices, a large wrap-around glass gallery, large restrooms and lots of space for storage.

"We realized schools in Giles and Lincoln Counties weren't going on field trips because they couldn't afford to rent a bus and travel to Nashville or Huntsville, so I thought what if I could bring those field trips to them?" says Kelly, founder of the non-profit organization.

Wolf Gap Education Outreach's

mission is to make history education accessible and affordable to public and home-schooled students throughout the Tennessee Valley through field trips, summer camp, fall festivals, school outreach, demonstrations, and workshops.
